

What is slant range?

Slant range is the distance between an aircraft and the position on the Earth at which an instrument onboard is pointing. This is the same as the hypotenuse of a triangle containing the altitude of the plane and the ground distance to the measured location. The diagram highlights the slant range.

